OneNeck helps customers host, manage and upgrade Microsoft Dynamics AX environments. We enable you to leverage your application to improve business processes, reduce costs and provide better support for management decision-making.

OneNeck Ranked No. 1
ERP Management Outsourcer
by the Black Book of Outsourcing
Three Years in a Row!

With unmatched expertise, proven experience and excellent customer references, we're well qualified to manage your Microsoft Dynamics AX environment. In fact, OneNeck offers:

- One of the only hosting companies in North America to offer complete end-to-end hosting services for Microsoft's Dynamics AX ERP application and beyond
- Hosting one of the largest Dynamics AX environments in the U.S. today
- Hard to find MBS certified resources
- Solid consulting experience including numerous integrations of third party specialty applications

Our technical and functional consultants have knowledge in all areas of managing and hosting a Dynamics AX environment. OneNeck's experience includes components such as the Enterprise Portal (EP), Application Integration Framework (AIF), BizTalk and Hyper-V. OneNeck is also deploying Dynamics AX 2009 on a virtual private server (VPS) farm to decrease time to deployment for implementations and increase flexibility for go-live and disaster recovery.

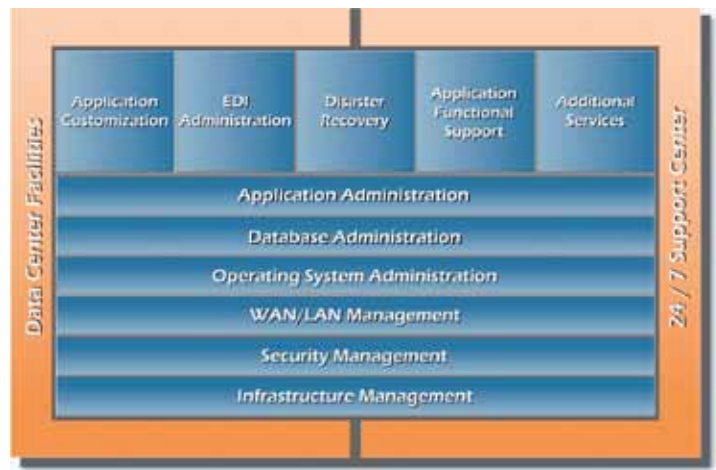

Since 1997, customers have relied on OneNeck for their tactical and strategic IT initiatives. Our track record in ERP systems management translates into meaningful benefits for mid-market companies. Through this experience, we're able to help companies concerned by the wave of consolidation in the enterprise software market. With significant in-house resources as well as depth of experience, OneNeck can mitigate the serious concerns customers may have regarding the future of their investments, systems support, updates and migration paths.

OneNeck's partnership with industry-leading solutions providers allows us to provide a complete, flexible and customized solution. Through a robust delivery model, we enable mid-market companies to maintain complex ERP environments on a cost-effective and predictable basis.

Plus, we've developed an "out of the box" decision tree model that can assist our customers in selecting the best migration path. Using our ROI-based model, we deliver the most business value while minimizing the migration risk.

Our objective was to provide a better and consistent level of IT services for our North American business at a lower overall cost to the corporation. At the same time we needed to provide 24/7 management for our mission critical systems. By enlisting OneNeck to handle our end-user and data center operations, we were able to accomplish this. Although we evaluated larger outsourcing companies, we found OneNeck's services to be more flexible and cost-effective.”
